AIG announces Jacqueline McNamee as Managing Director for the UK

LONDON, 5 June 2014 – AIG in Europe today announced the appointment of Jacqueline McNamee as Managing Director, UK Zone, reporting to Anthony Baldwin, Managing Director and Head of Distribution, EMEA. She is replacing Nicolas Aubert, who has become COO of EMEA, reporting to Seraina Maag, president of AIG's EMEA Region.

"The UK is an important market for AIG, and we are delighted that Jacqueline will be leading the team" said Mr Baldwin. "Her role will be to work closely with the UK product leaders, Distribution and the Chief Operating Officer to focus on market-facing activities and the execution of the UK business strategies."

Ms McNamee added "I'm very proud to lead the UK business. I know from first-hand experience that our staff have a wealth of expertise and experience in what is a large and dynamic market. Their achievements over the past few years speak for themselves.

"My priorities will be to maintain our strategy of focussing on the UK domestic and International London markets in Commercial Lines, developing our portfolio underwriting capabilities and supporting the evolution of Consumer Lines".

Ms McNamee was most recently Executive Director for AIG's Commercial Lines business in the UK. Before this she was the Regional Profit Centre manager for Financial Lines in Europe.

She joined AIG in 1997 and, after five years in Management Liabilities Underwriting in Dublin and London, she transferred to Financial Lines in the US. She has worked in both commercial directors' & officers and financial institutions environments as chief underwriting officer for financial lines home office, as well as global manager of the financial institutions practice before returning to London in 2010.

In 2012 Ms McNamee won the Women of Achievement Award in Insurance Services. She holds a Bachelor of Science Degree in Engineering from Trinity College, Dublin.
